LIL WORKER STORY

My name is James Flawith. I'm a Vancouver Island tradesman and father of three young boys who all want to be just like Daddy.

When I get home from work, my boys tackle me to the ground, strip off my high-visibility safety gear and parade around the house in it. Weird, right? Apparently not. Turns out, despite their fondness for diving off couches and bobsledding down stairs in laundry hampers, kids love safety gear.

I tried to find my boys some high visibility gear of their own – kids' clothing that would look just like Dad's and provide the same high level of safety and performance. Turns out, it didn't exist. So I made my own.

Thus was born Lil Worker Safety Gear. My kids love wearing their Lil Worker vests, rain jackets, work shirts and fleeces, and my wife and I sleep better knowing that our kids are instantly visible no matter where – or when – they're playing.

Growing up is tough work – even without speeding vehicles, careless drivers and the occasional wander off from the park. Whether biking, skiing, field-tripping or just plain playing, kids are safer when they're visible. And they'll love looking and feeling like real #industrialathletes!

I'm not a businessman. I'm not an entrepreneur. I'm a father. If you have any questions about my products, my company or my favourite shows on Netflix, send them to
